Mesoamerica and North America? Main Idea 1: Climate changes allowed people to migrate to the Americas.	Name_					Complete	Incomplete
Main Idea 1: crossed the land bridge from	1-1 -	- The Earl	liest America	ns- Pages	6-11
Climate changes allowed people to migrate to the Americas.		-		erican societies	develop across
 	Main 1	ldea 1:
 	Climat	te changes allo	wed people to migr	ate to the Ame	ricas.
<pre>to present-dayduring the last ice age from 38,000 to 10,000 BC. Scientists think peoplearrived in North America during theAge. Theleveland peopleland. Thisoffrom one region to another is called Paleo-Indians and their descendants moved into present-day, the, Mexico, and South America. Climate Affects Early Peoples Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gathered wild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and, who hunted animals and gathered wild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900.</pre>	•	-					E
 Scientists think people arrived in North America during the Age. The level and people land. This of from one region to another is called Paleo-Indians and their descendants moved into present-day, the Climate Affects Early Peoples Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gathered wild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and, who hunted animals and gathered wild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. societiy developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. invide in central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 					-	e from 38,000 to	10,000 BC.
 The level and people land. This of from one region to another is called Paleo-Indians and their descendants moved into present-day, the Paleo-Indians and their descendants moved into present-day, the Climate Affects Early Peoples Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gatherewild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. society diveloped along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. society diveloped along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. 	•
 This of from one region to another is called Paleo-Indians and their descendants moved into present-day, the, Mexico, and South America. Climate Affects Early Peoples Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gatherewild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. society diveloped along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. society diveloped along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. 						-	U
 Paleo-Indians and their descendants moved into present-day, the, Mexico, and South America. Climate Affects Early Peoples Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gathered wild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant, the once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. is a civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The societian thrived in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	•	This	of	from one re	gion to another	is called
, Mexico, and South America. Climate Affects Early Peoples • Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gathered wild plants. • Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. • Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. • climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. • Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common • is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. • Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. • society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. • civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. • The	•				-
 Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gatherewild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 					5
 Early peoples in the Americas were, who hunted animals and gatherewild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The civilization thrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	Clima	te Affects Early	v Peonles wild plants. Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 				٩		who hunted ani	mals and gathered
 Paleo-Indian began to hunt and after the Ice Age. Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	-		In the Timericus wer			, who numed am	indis und gutilered
 Tall became, resulting in the of the giant these once fed. and thrived on grasses. The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	•	-	hegar	to hunt	and	after	the Ice Age theseonce fed. andthrived ongrasses. Theclimate created new environments:and landscapes that surround living things. Differentinfluenced theof Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's commonand Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliestcivilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in andthrived ongrasses. Theclimate created new environments:and landscapes that surround living things. Differentinfluenced theof Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's commonand Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliestcivilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast ofbetween 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeasternfrom AD 300 to 900. Thearrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time thecreated a civilization in	•					of the g	lant
 The climate created new environments: and landscapes that surround living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in					on	orasses living things. Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	•						es that surround
 Different influenced the of Native American societies: groups that share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	·				ents		es that suffound share a common is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	•		influence	d the	of Native A	merican societie	s. groups that is a group's common and Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	-			u the		interieun societiei	5. groups that
 Main Idea 2: Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	•)n	and
 Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	-		is a group s comme	/II	uno	•
 Early societies existed in Mesoamerica and North America. Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	Main]	ldea 2:
 Some of the earliest civilizations developed in, also called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 			d in Mesoamerica a	and North Ame	erica.
 called Central America. society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	·					l	. also society developed along the Gulf Coast of between 1200 and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 					I I I		, and 400 BC. civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 	•			oped along the (Gulf Coast of		between 1200 civilization thrived in southeastern from AD 300 to 900. The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in 				1 8
The arrived in Central Mexico in AD 1200, about the time the created a civilization in	•		civilization thrived	in southeastern		from AD 300	to 900.
a civilization in	•
					,
	•				caused b	v its	by building
of	-					,  	o_ culturing

Main Idea 3: Cultures in North America were influenced by the environment.

- Researchers use _____areas to help describe ancient • _____ peoples.
- _____ areas are _____ locations that • _____ society.
- North America is divided into ______ culture • _____, including the Far North, _____ Coast, California, West, _____, Great Plains, and

Far North Culture Areas

Arctic

- Long, cold ______ and short _____ _____ and the _____ groups _____ to the _____ conditions of the ٠
- Inuit peoples in present-day _____ and _____
- Aleut peoples in ______
- Fished and hunted _____ mammals •

Subarctic

- Long, cold winters and short summers
- _____ followed ______ deer.
- People lived in ______ shelters made of ______.

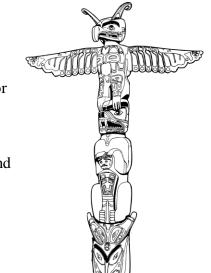

Pacific Coast and California Culture Areas

Pacific Coast

- Mild
- Mild ______
 Rich supply of ______ animals, sea life, and wild
- Kwakiutl and Chinook peoples carved _____, ancestor or • animal _____, on tall, _____ poles.

California

- Many food sources, such as _____, ____, and •
- People lived in ______ family groups of _____ to
- More than _____ different _____ spoken •
 - _____ included the Pomo, _____, and Yurok peoples.

West and Southwest Culture Areas

West

- Divided into ______ and Plateau ______
- Groups adapted to the ______ climate by gathering ______, digging _______, digging ________, digging _______, digging ________, digging _______, digging ________, digging ________, digging ________, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging ________, digging _______, digging ________, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging _______, digging ________, digging _______, digging ______, digging _______, digging ______, d
- Most ______, including Paiute, Shoshone, and the Ute, ______ the same

Southwest

- Groups included the _____, Navajo, and _____.
- They also adapted to a dry ______
- The ______ irrigated land to grow ______
 The ______ hunted game and ______ the _____ of other groups.

.

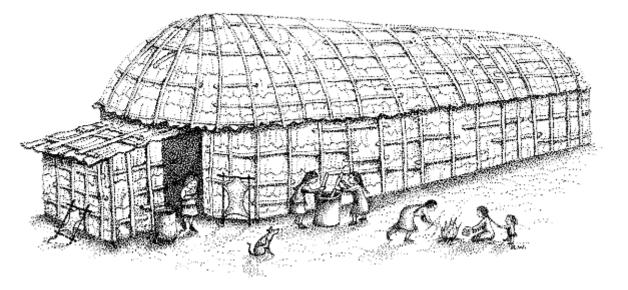

Great Plains and East Culture Areas

Great Plains

- Stretched from ______ to _____ and from the Mississippi Valley to the
- Mainly _____, with game such as _____
- People grew beans, _____, and squash.
- Groups included the Mandan, Pawnee, Arapaho, _____, and Comanche.

East

- Region ______ in sources of ______ and _____ ______ groups, such as the ______ and Creek, lived in ______
- villages.
- The Algonquian and ______ were the main groups in the ______
 The ______ formed the ______ League, a ______ that waged
- The ______ formed the ______ League, a ______ that waged ______ against non-Iroquois peoples.

Feel free to color the pictures in your notes with colored pencils to add some color to your notes!